

JOB MARKET WORKSHOP

w. Professor Stephanie Bosch Santana

Monday October 30

5-7PM

Comparative Literature Seminar Room:
Humanities 348

Professor Bosch Santana will answer questions on the job market for graduate students - of all years. No matter your plans, dreams, or general confusion, bring those queries to our friendly sit-down. Demystify key aspects of the employment search among peers.

Special attention will be paid to job advertisements. What on earth do they mean? (Who writes such nonsense?) How might we decode them?

Please send any intriguing or meaningless advertisements to David MacFadyen at macfadyen@humnet.ucla.edu They will be stitched together for a big-screen extravaganza, thus facilitating discussion.

Unhealthy snacks will be served.

UCLA

Department of Comparative Literature

